Brief Description of CIMB-CAP-2112-001

An imitation of Blue-and-white Large Plate with Folding Rim and Sea Wave and Dragon in Heavy Relief Made in Qianlong Period. In the heart of the plate, a four-clawed Dragon is painted in blue and white lines, leaping among the auspicious clouds. The momentum is majestic. The plate is decorated with a blue-and-white seawater pattern on the folded rim and a cycle of cliff and wave patterns on the outer wall. The blue and white pattern is richly colored with a uniform emerald blue color. The entire vessel is painted in a majestic style, imposing and dominating. The transition among the various groups of patterns is natural and interrelated, and the pieces are integrated as if the sea is surging and pounding on the cliffs, and the flying Dragon is dancing and wandering among the auspicious clouds, giving a vivid impression. The glaze applied on the large plate is thick and lustrous, and touches like jade. The dish is inscribed with an inscription in blue and white, specifically, six Chinese characters in three lines in Seal Script, reading "Made during the reign of Emperor Qianlong of the Qing Dynasty" .

This exquisite blue-and-white plate with a heavy relief Dragon design is one of a set of nine Dragon plates, and was reproduced from a top-quality imperial ceramic. This item features a fine, dense and firm borougcast, exquisite production, bright and lustrous glaze like jade, pure and flawless white glaze, with a slight shimmer of green in the white. The blue and white color is graceful and elegant, warm and transparent.

An imitation of Blue-and-white Large Plate with Folding Rim and Sea Wave and Dragon in Heavy Relief Made in Qianlong Period. In the heart of the plate, a four-clawed Dragon is painted in blue and white lines, leaping among the auspicious clouds. The momentum is majestic. The plate is decorated with a blue-and-white seawater pattern on the folded rim and a cycle of cliff and wave patterns on the outer wall. The blue and white pattern is richly colored with a uniform emerald blue color. The entire vessel is painted in a majestic style, imposing and dominating. The transition among the various groups of patterns is natural and interrelated, and the pieces are integrated as if the sea is surging and pounding on the cliffs, and the flying Dragon is dancing and wandering among the auspicious clouds, giving a vivid impression. The glaze applied on the large plate is thick and lustrous, and touches like jade. The dish is inscribed with an inscription in blue and white, specifically, six Chinese characters in three lines in Seal Script, reading "Made during the reign of Emperor Qianlong of the Qing Dynasty" .

This exquisite blue-and-white plate with a heavy relief Dragon design is one of a set of nine Dragon plates, and was reproduced from a top-quality imperial ceramic. This item features a fine, dense and firm borougcast, exquisite production, bright and lustrous glaze like jade, pure and flawless white glaze, with a slight shimmer of green in the white. The blue and white color is graceful and elegant, warm and transparent.
