The cave is dark.

The only shine comes from gold
Treasure lost, left, looted.

Sit and wait to make sure they are not taken away
And not be able to fly in the blue sky that shines,
Go and risk losing everything.

Doubts that corrode,
lessons to be learned.

Nobody has it all, nobody is finished.
